Wednesday, March 14th 6:30pm

At

The Library Center

Our Featured Speaker will be

Susan Haake

Curator at Lincoln Home National Historic Site

"Flub-dubs for this d*$#ed old house!": The Lincolns, their home and how we keep it looking that way.

With only one photograph, three sketches and a few newspaper descriptions, she will explain how the National Park Service restored the interior of the Lincoln Home to a point that would hopefully be recognized by the Lincolns should they walk in the front door, and what has happened in the 30 years since the last restoration.

ANNUAL SPONSORS

Commerce Bank Great Southern Bank

President's Message

Well, in like a lamb and hopefully out like a lamb too. I hope not a lion. Flowers are starting to bloom and trees are starting to get their buds on them. White bass and crappy and walleye are starting to run. I have caught white bass in early March. Spring is a good time of the year. I love this time of year--everything is new.

Have a good March.

Stubby

THE CIVIL WAR IN THE TRANS-MISSISSIPPI WEST:

ARCHAEOLOGY OF THE BATTLES OF WILSON'S CREEK, PEA RIDGE, AND OTHER STORIES

The American Civil War was truly brother against brother, especially in the state of Missouri. There, pro-southern Missouri Militia fought Union regulars and volunteers. The 1861 Battle of Wilson's Creek was a southern victory. The spring 1862 Battle of Pea Ridge was a decisive Union victory and resulted in Missouri staying in the Union camp. Subsequently, 1,500 other battles and skirmishes followed in Missouri before the war ended. Recent archaeological and historical studies of these battles have added considerable detail to understanding those events by demonstrating through physical evidence there is more than is recorded in the recollections of participants or the official record of events.
